

Golf - Laura

The Goal

To have the least amount of points at the end of the game.

The Deal

8 cards are dealt to each player, the players lay them face down in a 4-across, 2-down array and flip over whichever 2 cards they wish. There should be a draw pile, and the dealer should wait to flip over the first card until all players' 2 cards of choice have been flipped over.

The Game

Players will spend their turns by drawing cards or flipping over their cards one by one with the goal of matching like numbers within their 4 vertical columns. When numbers are matched, they cancel out, and the total for that column is zero. If the numbers are not matched, the total for that column is the sum of those 2 numbers. On a player's turn they may either flip a card face-up, or draw from either the draw or discard pile. If you choose to flip a card, your turn is over. If you choose to draw from either pile, you may either discard it or replace it with any card on your board. However, if you choose to replace a face-down card with the card drawn, you cannot choose to keep your original card once you've seen it. The round is over once one of the players has all 8 cards lying face-up. Every player following gets 1 more turn and then has to flip all their remaining cards over. Every player totals their final score.

Ending the Game

The game is over when 9 rounds have been played.

Different Variation (Sam):

Two decks are used. 9 cards are dealt to each player, the players lay them face down in a 3x3 array. 3-in-a-row (including diagonals) cancels out, leaving zero points.

Scoring: All face cards are worth 10, all other cards are worth face value.
