

Mao - Amy

The Deal

Each player is dealt 7 cards. The draw pile is placed in the center with one card face up next to the draw pile.

Starting the Game

Upon receiving their cards, players are not allowed to touch their cards until the dealer says, "The Game of Mao starts now." At this point game play will begin with the player to the left of the dealer and continue clockwise from there.

The Fundamental Rules

On each player's turn they may play one card of the same value or suit of the face up card in the middle of the play area. If the player is unable to do so, they must draw one card (you can play the drawn card if possible).

When a rule is broken, the player is penalized by being given one card from the draw pile. Any player can give a penalty card, and upon giving the card, they must state a penalty name which must hint to the rule. When breaking basic rules you say "Card for breaking the fundamental rules of Mao". If a person incorrectly punishes someone you say "Card for being stupid".

Special Rules

1. Talking is not allowed during gameplay (Card for talking)
2. You cannot touch your cards before the game starts (Card for touching your cards)
3. Coffee Breaks allow players to talk but not touch their cards (Card for touching your cards)
4. You must call "Mao" when you have one card left (Card for not calling Mao)

Ending the Game

The game is won when a player plays their very last card and says, "The game of Mao ends now." The winner of the game gets to make up one new rule for the next time the game is played. This rule cannot contradict an already existing rule. This rule is not told to the rest of the players. They must figure it out during gameplay.

Ex: Rule - You must make a joke when a jack is a player.

Penalty Name - "Card for not fooling around" (Hints to making a joke)

Notes: You can make additive rules that will never be penalized. For example, you can play multiple cards of the same value in one play. This allows additional gameplay but they won't get punished for not doing it so it's an additive rule. If attempted and done incorrectly, it would be a punishment for breaking the fundamental rules of Mao.
